Electronic Agendas and Minutes for Councils

ISSUE 20
Sep 2018

Welcome to Infocouncil News. This time we are continuing our series 'Heads in the Cloud' to inform you of our plans for moving Infocouncil into the cloud, and we have an important announcement about our ownership. We also have some pearls of wisdom from Dilbert.

As always, we will keep it brief. Thank you for your interest.

All the best,

Bill Shute
Infocouncil Pty Ltd.

"Infocouncil will continue to operate as an independent unit but will now have access to know-how, funding and connections that were previously unavailable to us"

Vela Australia Buys Infocouncil

On 5th July 2018, Vela Australia acquired a controlling interest in Infocouncil. Vela Australia is the Australian subsidiary of Constellation Software Incorporated, a publicly listed company on the Canadian stock exchange.

Vela is a decentralised, learning-focused organisation that offers coaching and resources to help good companies become exceptional. Their best practices, derived from Constellation's many autonomous business units, help their companies maintain and enhance competitive advantage, while providing customers with superior value.

Infocouncil will continue to operate as an independent unit but will now have access to know-how, funding and connections that were previously unavailable to us.

We look forward to continuing to help our councils manage their agendas and minutes, and we look forward to taking our next steps.

Heads in the Cloud part 4

Brief recap on parts 1 to 3

“The more crap you put up with, the more crap you are going to get”
“If it wasn’t for the last minute, nothing would get done”
“I can only please so many people per day. Today is not your day”
